Hunter was diagnosed with two types of scoliosis in August of 2015. He has what is called Schurman's kyphosis (hunchback) and Atypical scoliosis (curve to the left instead of the right).

Corrective surgery is needed in order to take care of these problems. Harrington rods will be inserted in the back along the spine. As of right now the scoliosis pulls his shoulder blades out causing him great pain and without the surgery he will develop many health problems as he gets older. With a surgery like this comes a great expense. While insurance covers some of it, there is still a lot of remaining cost.

There is an account at Citizens National Bank for the benefit of Hunter Jewison set up. Your donations are appreciated. Thank You!
